Jon was so great! He was so interested in helping us learn about the topics and making them easy to understand for all of us. The readings he assigned were relevant to course material and I felt like I really learned to think critically from a different perspective while taking his class. I plan on taking another class with him next semester.

I loved this class. Not only were the topics interesting and enlightening Jon's personality and way of teaching made the class fun! Thanks again Jon for everything your class is one of my absolute favorite classes.

Jonathan is truly one of the best teachers I have ever had. He is very passionate about the subject matter that he teaches and communicates it in an excellent way. I have taken everything that I have learned in his class and have applied it to my everyday life. Each day we read and watch interesting material and then have intellectually stimulating class discussions which always give me new insight on different topics. Jonathan always ensures that his students understand the information and has personally reached out to me several times which I really appreciate.

This is my most interesting course of the semester, and the complex and often mildly abstract concepts are articulated clearly and engagingly. I learned something new every day in this class, and can honestly say that these concepts and discussions will stick with me for years to come.

Overall, a very good teacher who's class I will recommend to my friends. However, the readings did tend to get a little overwhelming as the semester went on. I think maybe you should start the semester off in the same way but then maybe only assign a few articles for the entire week as opposed to daily. And please no more movie assignment mid-week. Mondays are fine but the I don't have much time to watch a 100+ minute movie during the week.

very enthusiastic about the material and course. very willing to help students. responded to emails very quickly. nightly assignments required a lot of work.

I have never met a teacher so well prepared and interested in the subject he is teaching. In addition to this being one of the most interesting and eye-opening subjects I've ever studied, Jon made sure the environment was always rich and exciting. I've already recommended this class to all of my friends. Jon was a phenomenal instructor!

One of the best professors I've had. He really cares about the students a lot, teaches the subject matter well, and truly cared about students comprehension.

Overall, Jon is one of the greatest professors I've ever had. Anyone who takes his course knows how much he loves teaching and how effective he is at communicating material. One thing I would say is that, as much as he tries to encourage inclusive language in his classrooms, he didn't always do so in regards to conservative and Christian views and values. I would ask that, in future classes, he be more mindful of doing so.

Jon is literally the most detail oriented teacher I've ever had. He makes everything so perfectly clear and sets it up in an atmosphere so that you don't feel stupid for needing help

Jon was such an amazing professor! He always encouraged us to look at things from a different angle and analyze things critically and I remember thinking at the beginning of the class that I was never going to use anything I learned in this class outside of the class but I actually ended up writing a paper in my history class all about Masculinities and how they were perceived by certain historical authors and I never got the chance to tell Jon that but I was soooooo extremely grateful that I had the opportunity to learn from him and develop these lenses that have not only helped me in my life outside school but also in other classes!

Easily one of my favorite classes I have ever taken at Ohio State-incredibly interesting content with a professor who challenges students to see the world differently and inspire others to do the same. Fair assignments, excellent communication, and an open door.

Jon is easily one of my two favorite professors at OSU. He was always prepared for class, and each class was structured very well. There was definitely a flow to the class so it was easy to fall into the right habits in regards to doing the homework. While attendance is part of our grade, I would have come to every class anyway because it was so interesting. The structure of this class really made it easy to participate in discussions, and even when I felt I had nothing to add I was able to listen and learn so much from Jon and my classmates. I would recommend this class to everyone.

Jon cares about his students and knows how to teach the class in an interesting and interactive manner.

Jon is an amazing instructor and you can tell how passionate he is about what he teaches. He did a wonderful job of presenting intersectional feminism in a way that people would be able to easily understand. I absolutely loved this class and keep recommending it to friends.

we love jon!!!!

Great instructor. Always graded things quickly and would reply to emails within an hour.

I love Jon, he's the best. He makes every class interesting and stimulating and you can tell that he really cares about his students and the subject matter that he is teaching. One of the best classes/professors I've ever had!

Jon remains one of the best teachers I've had at OSU. He is so attentive to his students in the classroom and always analyzing where we're at, if we are grasping concepts or just staring blankly. He goes out of his way to provide students with opportunities for further learning and success. He is personable and approachable, as well as understanding and flexible when life happens. He has worked with me tremendously during a very tumultuous time, and I can't imagine this semester would've been possible had I not been on such good terms with him. I probably would have withdrawn the semester had he not been there to encourage me to be strong and do what I felt best. He really makes a huge difference in all of his students lives, its no wonder he received the graduate teaching award. Wonderful intelligent instructor that I recommend to everyone.
